The rise of the Coronas has been one of the great Irish music industry stories of recent years. Signed to their own label, they have had two of their three albums go top five in their home country and headlined the O2 in Dublin in 2012. Vocalist Danny O'Reilly comes from a famous musical family, with

Cosmos: A Spacetime Odyssey - S1 · E1 - Standing Up In The Milky Way

The Ship of the Imagination, unfettered by ordinary limits on speed and size, drawn by the music of cosmic harmonies, can take us anywhere in space and time. It has been idling for more than three decades, and yet it has never been overtaken. Its global legacy remains vibrant. Now, it's time once again to set sail for the stars.

∞ Apple unleashes a second major threat to Google

The Loop (Dave Mark) - 04/06/2014 13:31

Earlier this week, Samsung announced their first Tizen smartphone, sending a shot across Google's bow, from the Android side. Apple then followed up with their announcement that Bing would be the default search engine in Spotlight searches. Also, note this text from Apple's Yosemite preview page:

You can also now search the web using DuckDuckGo, a search engine that doesn't track you.

Samsung's Tizen threat is an obvious one, a move to derail Android's dominance as the number one competitor to iOS in the mobile space.

The change in Apple's search defaults is much more subtle, but no less important.

From Forbes:

In the new versions of their operating systems, Google results will be removed from Spotlight and replaced with Microsoft's Bing. Of course Apple is going to offer searches through iTunes, the App Store, Apple Maps, iBooks, and more, but the prize of web searches in Spotlight now goes to Redmond.

Keen followers of Apple will note that Bing was already powering results for Siri.

It's not a total wipe-out, users searching in Safari will see results from Google, but Apple is slowly winding back their reliance on Google. Wherever web searching remains visible to the

Apple's WWDC 2014 keynote was the most exciting in years

The Unofficial Apple Weblog (Yoni Heisler) - 04/06/2014 16:05
